Entrepreneurial Bootcamp: Explore New Playgrounds

In an intensive week, you will work in small groups of musicians from various departments (jazz, classical, early music, composition, music education, conducting) to prepare short musical performances or musical interventions. These performances will be created for and presented in specific societal contexts with the aim to reach out to new audiences. Performances can take place in unusual venues and spaces thus exploring new markets for and exposure of musical creations. Each group is guided by a coach. You will run your own 'businesses' and acquire hands-on experiences with career skills such as project management, collaboration, communication and presentation. You will film your performances and interventions and present your projects to an audience of first year Bachelor students at the end of this week.

At the end of this course you:

- are able to take initiative and recognise opportunities as a performing musician;
- have explored your artistic identity in a social context;
- have developed your collaborative skills;
- have developed your communication skills.

This course is part of the Career Skills courses. These courses prepare you for the professional world by offering you the opportunity to acquire skills for your future career.
